

Loving Life Fully

H. Herbert Sennett, Jr.

Brief Biography

Dr. Herb Sennett has extensive experience in the communication arts. He has worked in broadcast and print media, the theatrical arts, secondary and higher education, and in the religious field. He served as a high school teacher of English, speech, and drama. He was the pastor of two churches. He spent nearly thirty years in the military reserves (starting out in the infantry and the last twenty-one as a chaplain) retiring as a lieutenant colonel. And he spent thirty years teaching at the college and university level.

In his spare time, Dr. Sennett has volunteered with several non-profits aiding especially with alcohol/drug addicted teens and their families. His expertise in the theatre extended from collegiate, community, and professional theatres as director, scenic and lighting designer, and as playwright. Dr. Sennett has published two academic books in the theatrical arts and two has novels currently available through Amazon. He has presented workshops for the legal profession, the teaching profession, and for author groups across the country.

As a professor, Dr. Sennett taught at Palm Beach Atlantic University, Louisiana College, Broward College, and Palm Beach State College. He was a visiting professor at several other universities and has been invited to numerous schools for workshops and special training in communication arts. And he received top ranking by his students the last ten years of his teaching career.

Dr. Sennett's academic achievements surpass most peoples' dreams. He as earned the following degrees:

- BSE, Arkansas State University
- MA, University of Memphis
- MFA, Florida Atlantic University
- MDiv, Southern Baptist Theological Seminary
- DMin, Midwestern Baptist Theological Seminary
- PhD, Louisiana State University

Dr. Sennett lives with his wife of fifty years in South Florida. He has a son and a daughter. And he is most proud of his grandson.